EDUCATION INTERN: GRAPHIC DESIGN
Academic Year 2021–22

The Education Department at the Johnson Museum of Art seeks a Cornell undergraduate intern with skills in graphic design to join their team of seven professional staff. The position is an opportunity for a skilled and motivated student to gain workplace experience and develop a professional graphic design portfolio.

DUTIES WILL INCLUDE:

- Working closely with museum educators and programming staff, the intern will design flyers, invitations, and web banners for a range of public programs and assist in laying out and designing PreK-12 curricular materials.
- The candidate should have a keen visual sense and the flexibility to design for an array of audiences.
- Attention to detail and the ability to work to a deadline are essential.
- Final approval for all design work will come from the Museum's Public Affairs department to ensure brand consistency and alignment with Museum's brand guidelines.

QUALIFICATIONS NEEDED:

Experience working with the Adobe Creative Cloud apps Photoshop, Illustrator, and InDesign required. Experience working with Premier Pro would be an advantage.

Please email a cover letter and resume to Annmarie Ventura at av534@cornell.edu by Thursday, September 2. Candidates for interviews will be contacted individually.

This position is located in Ithaca, New York. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, and Cornell University’s need to limit the number of on-campus employees, the successful applicant may be asked to perform this role remotely.

The Johnson Museum of Art values the power of different perspectives to expand and deepen our understanding of art and society. The Museum is an inclusive space and we seek candidates who will contribute to an environment that supports students, faculty, and staff of all identities and backgrounds.
